You are a yin Wood type, which indicates that you are in a process of building certain qualities into your life, either consciously or otherwise. You do this primarily through any means by which you can foster the creative, artistic and imaginative side of your nature. You have a perfect balance of Yin and Yang in your nature, which gives you equal facility for dealing with both sexes. You find that your creative imagination is fired by your intimate dealings with people. You also have the strong sense that you can really make a difference within society and that you and society can greatly benefit through your mutual interaction. With children and friends you feel very blessed in your relationships and they prove to be a true benefit to you. Metal is the element that shapes your destiny but it is not found in your personal makeup, so your destiny lies outside your close personal contacts and is in relation to the larger social construct. In a curious sort of way this lack of a controlling emphasis in your life has made you a kind of law unto yourself. The element ruling your sense of self - Wood - finds its greatest support through your immediate family and friends and your creative pursuits.

This life is a time of victory over things that have held you back in the past and that have kept you bound to the past for you. It is a social and interactive life for you, as indicated by the Rabbit. This also indicates that you will likely attract that sort of partner into your life - strongly social, conversational, well-read, good judge of character, humble and reserved. These same qualities can apply to you at times, but you tend to like more of a spirited, vivacious kind of life. You seek to be a person of some distinction in the world and to expand well beyond the situation of your birth. This can cause you to seem timid on the one hand as you are not quite sure how you fit in with people, and quite courageous and independent once you figure out where you do fit in. You tend to have to find your own means of self-discipline, for you have not had close contacts against which you have been able to test yourself. Your family of birth is supportive. You feel a deep kinship with them. You feel guided and mentored by your partner and are very comfortable with this person. From the standpoint of the outer observer you can be quite the independent spirit when you are with other people, but you can be reserved and withdrawn away from people as you brood over your lot in life. You do not find a ready or sympathetic forum for expressing these qualities. The times when you best express these qualities are when you get back in touch with the plans you are supposed to give full expression to in this life.

In marriage/partnership, you tend toward a social life with many people coming into the sphere of your partnership and in your later years will likely find yourself engaged in many imaginative and creative pursuits. You desire a creative life and are very likely to have it. The home base is important to you and you may find that you work from home at some point. Your partner, being somewhat reserved and withdrawn around others, must be able to rally their considerable people skills if they are to be able to provide a comfortable home base. You desire your partner to be a true inspiration to you, to stimulate your mind and to draw out the highest spirituality in you. There is kinship with them, but because of the nature of the phase of life your inner evolution represents, they will seem reserved and withdrawn at times. This is meant to show you about your own inner nature and to bring you back in line with your own purpose, because you are actually quite fond of being with people, and this behavior is meant to draw you out and thus get you to interact with people. When this happens you may find that you have been a bit too reserved yourself in some ways.

Your work life inclines toward the practical and the enterprising, and you do well in careers where you can, through practical insight and a calm, centered approach, show how calm attention to detail can yield bold and brilliant results over time. You seem to have a real knack with money, though, and once you become established - though you are already good at making money - you could do even better if you shared some of your secrets for success among trusted friends and acquaintances and even began some philanthropic work. They feel that your imagination can carry them to places that they have not previously envisioned, and that whatever you touch has a hint of the artist in it. Because of this, they can advise you in kind on the material side of your life and give you the inspiration that you need and the motivation that feeds you to eventually acquire the things you desire. You are socially somewhat conservative. This is a help to you because you have learned how to work within the system to effect the greatest change. Since you have a very circumspect view of society and the ability to become a co-creator within society, along with imagination, you can make things happen in that world.

In your later years you will be known as a person who is a force for change in the realm of your social contacts. If your life goes according to plan, you will have produced quite a lot of very practical and useful work, which will be enduring, sound, highly useful, and will show people how life can be molded to fit one's imagination with the need effort. Your works will evoke the soul in people and people will find that those works have a wide, intellectual appeal that they can count on for future reference. You will have attained the centered security you have sought. This gives you the muse you need to pursue your love of beauty and nature and look to the next steps ahead for you as you look back on a life well-lived. Though your approach may seem casual, you have learned presence over the years. People will have learned to revere you, to be inspired by you and to honor your accomplishments. And, when you finally journey on to the Heavenly Fields, you will be honored as a far-sighted and insightful Ancestor - affectionately known as the "Enlightened Rabbit", who saw the creative potential in all things and whose wisdom now flows out to all like the Water of a Stream. You were able to rise above all circumstances and are still able to guide everyone left behind through the legacy of your foresight, imagination, solid manner and light you were able to bring to bear.
